BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The EXPLO Site is located on the former Louisiana Army Ammunition Plant (LAAP). LAAP was established in 1942 and its primary function was to load, assemble, and pack munitions, and manufacture ammunition metal parts. Burning and demolition activities were also performed to destroy explosives and explosive wastes generated by manufacturing of munitions. In 2005, the United States Government transferred all of the LAAP to the State of Louisiana, and it is now under the control of the Louisiana Military Department and serves as a training base for the Louisiana National Guard. EXPLO leased a portion of Camp Minden from the Louisiana National Guard. The Site is in an area designated as "S-line" based on the LAAP operation which occupies approximately 110 acres of the 14,975 acres of Camp Minden.

LAAP was placed on the National Priorities List, final listing on March 13, 1989. The listing was primarily based on pits with trinitrotoluene (TNT) and other explosives. Soil, surface water, and ground water were contaminated.

EXPLO operated under several contracts or subcontracts for the demilitarization or dismantling of munitions. One of EXPLO's processes included the dismantling of 750 lb. and 2,000 lb. bombs and recovering the explosive charges, the metals found in the bombs, and other materials used for packing and transport of the weapons or charges. The process of demilitarization of 155mm Propelling Charges and EXPLO's improper storage of M6 Propellant and other explosive materials resulted in an explosion at the Site.

On October 15, 2012, the explosion of a magazine and tractor trailers containing black powder and M6 Propellant at EXPLO shattered windows in Minden, LA (approximately 4 miles northeast) and generated a 7,000-foot mushroom cloud. The explosion resulted in the complete destruction of the storage magazine and the tractor trailers parked outside the magazine containing the material, damage to 11 railcars, and the release of unconsumed M6 Propellant over ¼ mile from the site of the explosion requiring remediation.

On November 27, 2012, the Louisiana State Police (LSP) executed a search warrant at the Explo Systems site. LSP identified approximately 10 million lbs. of improperly and illegally stored M6 Propellant and other explosives throughout the buildings, hallways, and outside the Explo facility that were exposed to the elements (i.e. heat, wind, and rain).

In late 2012 or early 2013, EXPLO transferred 3 million pounds of M6 Propellant through Austin Powder's lease to Highland Industrial Park, a storage facility in Camden, Arkansas.

On August 12, 2013, EXPLO filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy. On September 6, 2013, the Louisiana Governor declared the site a state of emergency. On September 30, 2013, the Bankruptcy Court transferred title and ownership of the M6 and other explosives stored at Camp Minden, La., to the Louisiana Military Department.
